Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., March 16.—College swordsmen from Cornell, Ohio State, Hamilton, New York University and the United States Military Academy, comprising the Central Division of the Intercollegiate Fencing League, competed here today in the semi-final matches to qualify teams and individual fencers with foils, épée and saber for the annual intercollegiate finals. Army qualified teams with each weapon. New York University, Cornell and Ohio State were the other team finalists.

Schulsky of New York University carried off individual honors with the foils with ten victories out of twelve starts, Quill of the Army and Larco of Cornell, being the only swordsmen to defeat him. Schulsky lost to Quill 5-3, and to Larco, 5-4, after spirited bouts.

Quill Qualifies With Foils.

Other individuals to qualify with the foils were Quill, Helss and Brownlee of the Army, and Neimyer of Hamilton. The qualifying foils team were Army and Cornell.

Cadet Sands was high man with the épée, scoring seven victories and meeting defeat only once. Bailey of Hamilton was the one fencer Sands could not handle. Bambeck and Fox of Ohio State, Sorenson of N. Y. U. and Hancock of Hamilton were others to qualify with the épée.

The teams to qualify with the épée were Army and Ohio State. New York University failed to score with the épée, losing four straight matches.

Giddings in Saber Tie.

Three swordsmen were tied for final honors with the saber. They were Giddings, Army; Seldia, Cornell, and Schulsky of N. Y. U. Larco, Cornell and Lubart, N. Y. U., also qualified with the saber. The teams to qualify were Army and N. Y. U.
